Activity Book

This Activity Book contains activity pages that accompany the lessons from the Unit 4 Teacher Guide. The activity pages are organized and numbered according to the lesson number and the order in which they are used within the lesson. For example, if there are two activity pages for Lesson 4, the first will be numbered 4.1 and the second 4.2. The Activity Book is a student component, which means each student should have an Activity Book.

Core Connections Vignette

Scene I: European Explorers and the “New World”

Characters: Narrators (4), Timeline Tracker, Audience Member, English Royal, English Explorer, French Royal, French Explorer

Narrator 1: The Age of Exploration occurred from around the 1400s to the 1600s. Ships left busy ports of Spain, Portugal, France, Holland, and England to sail around the world. The explorers aboard these ships sought more than adventure. European kings and queens paid them to find gold, spices . . . and land.

Timeline Tracker: [Point out “Age of Exploration” on the Core Connections Timeline on display.]

Audience Member: That’s when Christopher Columbus discovered America, right?

Narrator 2: Well, not exactly. Native people had lived in the Americas for many, many years before Columbus landed. But, you’re right that in 1492 Columbus was one of the first Europeans to claim land in the Americas for the king and queen of Spain. After that, many other Europeans followed, curious about what this “New World” had to offer.

Timeline Tracker: [Point out “Christopher Columbus” on the Core Connections Timeline.]

Narrator 3: In the mid-1500s, both the English and the French began to form colonies in the “New World” and in 1607 the English established their first permanent colony in Jamestown, Virginia.

Narrator 1: After that—as they say—the rest is history!

Timeline Tracker: [Point out “Jamestown” on the Core Connections Timeline.]

Narrator 4: Imagine now that you live during the early 1600s. Listen as first the king (or queen) of England and then the king (or queen) of France each talk to an explorer about traveling to the “New World.” Both countries are anxious to claim more land in North America.

Narrator 1: First, the English.

English Royal: Spain keeps claiming more and more territory across the Atlantic Ocean. We need to get over there and take a share—a LARGE share—for our homeland!

English Explorer: Well, sir (ma’am), it seems Spain has already claimed most of the territory in Central and South America. No worries, though, we will get as much of the remaining land as we can!

[English Royal and English Explorer sit down.]

Narrator 1: Now, the French.

French Royal: We, too, shall sail to this “New World” and get as much land and riches as we can for France.

French Explorer: Yes, your majesty!

Scene II: Native American Alliances

Characters: Narrators (4), Timeline Tracker, Native Americans (2), English Explorer, French Explorer

Narrator 1: At about the same time that English colonists settled Jamestown, French colonists arrived in New France and settled Québec.

Timeline Tracker: [Point out “Québec” on the Core Connections Timeline.]

Narrator 2: Many of these French and English explorers encountered Native American tribes already living on the land, just as Christopher Columbus had more than 100 years earlier.

Narrator 3: Listen as two Native Americans encounter European explorers for the first time.

Native American 1: Did they say “New World”?

Native American 2: What “New World”? We have lived here for thousands of years.

Native American 1: Who are these people?

Native American 2: And what do they want?

Narrator 3: Native Americans had long traded goods with one another, tribe to tribe. Now, they agreed to trade with the Europeans.

English Explorer (to Native American 1): We will trade knives, glass, copper, and brass in exchange for meat, fish, animal skins, and furs.

French Explorer (to Native American 2): We will teach you how to hunt with metal weapons if you will teach us to hunt in the wilderness.

Narrator 4: For many years, Europeans traded goods with Native Americans. Over time, some tribes formed alliances with the English and others formed alliances with the French.

Scene III: Competing for the Same Land

Characters: Narrators (2), Map Guide, British General, French General, French (all students)

Narrator 1: Explorers from many European countries raced to claim areas of North America for themselves. The English established colonies along the east coast of North America—between Spanish settlements to the south and French settlements to the north.

Map Guide: [Point out the English colonies as well as the areas north and south of the colonies on the Colonial North America Map.]

Narrator 2: By 1733, the British had established 13 colonies in America, the last one being Georgia in 1733. But it was not enough. They pushed westward, across the Appalachian Mountains to an area already occupied by the French—the Ohio River Valley.

British General: We need more land so more of our families can build homes. This rich river valley is a true land of opportunity.

French General: The French established forts and trading posts here long before the British ever crossed the mountains. Everyone knows this land is called New France.

Narrator 1: This was not a good combination! The British and the French had been enemies for years on the other side of the ocean. Now, they were competing for the same land in North America. Listen as French and British generals justify their claim to the same land.

British General: [clearing throat] Ahem. It is a well-known fact that the land belongs to Great Britain. The members of the British Parliament even wrote to tell the French to leave at once.

Narrator 2: Hmm. This was a bad sign! [to audience] Do you think the French will cooperate with this request?

French (ALL): [pausing as if to consider this request before replying in unison] Non!

Narrator 1: The British prepared to defend the land. And so did the French. It seemed conflict was unavoidable.

Scene IV: A Long, Long War

Characters: Narrators (3), Audience Members (2), Timeline Tracker

Narrator 1: And so it was that fighting began between the British and the French, both wanting to control land west of the Appalachian Mountains, the Ohio River Valley.

Narrator 2: Both sides knew they could not defeat the other without the help of Native Americans who had lived on the land for thousands of years. The French and their Native American allies were already well-established trading partners.

Narrator 3: The British gave gifts and made promises to their Native American allies.

Narrator 1: So both sides received help from different Native American tribes when the fighting began.

Narrator 2: Eventually, Britain officially declared war on France in 1756. But the British and French colonists had already been fighting for two years in the wilderness of North America. The French and Indian War was well underway.

Audience Member 1: Wait! The French and Indian War? Why isn't it called the French and British War?

Narrator 3: Excellent question. The war is known as the French and Indian War because the British fought against the French and their Native American, or Indian, allies.

Narrator 1: That's right. The French and Indian War was not a war between the French and the Indians. It was between the French and the British—part of their ongoing struggle for control of land in other parts of the world.

Audience Member 2: So, fighting was going on in other parts of the world at the same time?

Narrator 2: Yes, the French and Indian War was just part of more fighting involving many countries, particularly the French and the British, around the world.

Narrator 3: Fighting continued in the wilderness of North America for a very long time—almost nine years in all.

Narrator 1: Yes, and that was only the beginning. Even though Great Britain became the dominant power in North America after the war, life in the British colonies was never the same.

Narrator 2: But that’s a lesson for another day.

Excerpt from “Bills to Pay”

Read the following excerpt aloud to a family member and complete the activity that follows.

Taxes

The British government had borrowed a lot of money to fight this war. A lot of that money had been spent on protecting the colonists from the French and their Native American allies. All of the money had to be paid back, and the British government felt that the colonists should pay their share. In addition, more money was continually needed to protect the colonies as well as the newly acquired land.

To raise the needed funds, the British government imposed new taxes, including several that would have to be paid by the colonists. In 1765, King George III and his government proposed the Stamp Act.

The Stamp Act was a tax on printed materials. Colonists were required to buy stamps when they bought printed items such as newspapers, pamphlets, even playing cards. These were not gummed stamps, but rather impressions imprinted or embossed on paper. Many people were upset about the Stamp Act. They thought it was unfair that the king and his government in London were making decisions about taxes the colonists had to pay, while the colonists had no say in the matter.

Stamps were imprinted or embossed on paper.

The British government had generally allowed the colonies to raise taxes themselves. For example, if the government of Virginia needed money, an assembly of representatives from different parts of Virginia would meet. This assembly was called the House of Burgesses. Members of the House of Burgesses would determine the best way to raise money. They would propose taxes, and they would vote. If many representatives thought the taxes were unfair, they would not vote for them and, therefore, the taxes would not be approved. Because the House of Burgesses included representatives from different parts of Virginia, most everyone felt the process was fair.

Every colony had an assembly similar to the Virginia House of Burgesses. The assemblies weren't all called the House of Burgesses, but they did the same thing: a group of representatives met to discuss new laws and taxes.

Although the colonists continued to raise their own taxes even after 1765, they felt that, rather than imposing a new tax on the colonies, the king and his government should have asked these assemblies to find a way to raise the money that was needed. Instead, without even as much as a dialogue, the king and his government created the Stamp Act. They did not send it to the colonial assemblies, but directly to Parliament, part of the British government responsible for passing laws and raising taxes.

The colonists agreed that there were bills that had to be paid, and they wanted to contribute. But they also wanted some say in how the money was raised. They were concerned that important decisions about taxes were being made thousands of miles away, by a parliament that had no colonial representatives. This process didn't seem fair to them.

Other regions outside of England, such as Scotland, had representatives in Parliament. Their job was to represent—and stand up for—the people of Scotland. But there were no representatives from the 13 colonies in Parliament. Not even one!

When the colonists became upset about the Stamp Act, they expressed their unhappiness in various ways. They held protest meetings. They wrote pamphlets. They sent petitions to London. They tried to explain why they thought the Stamp Act was unfair.

The Stamp Act was seen as an unfair tax.

Chapter 2

Trouble Is Brewing

THE BIG QUESTION

Who were the Sons of Liberty, and what form of protest did they lead in Boston Harbor?

Some of the most passionate protests against the Stamp Act took place in Boston, Massachusetts. There, angry crowds took their frustration out on tax collectors.

A new group of protestors formed in Boston in response to the Stamp Act. The group met under a tree that they called the Liberty Tree. They made public speeches against taxes and the British government. They cried, “No taxation without representation!” This group became known as the Sons of Liberty.

Eventually, after much protest, the British government decided to repeal the Stamp Act in 1766. Parliament eliminated the tax on paper products, but in 1767 it replaced it with other taxes—including taxes on imported goods, such as tea. These taxes were officially called the Townshend Acts.

Buying, selling, even drinking tea became a political act in 1773.

Teapot celebrating the repeal of the Stamp Act

Tea was a popular drink in the colonies, just as it was in Great Britain. However, many people decided they would not buy British tea if they had to pay an unfair tax. And they thought the new tax on tea was every bit as unfair as the old tax on paper. After all, the new tax had been approved by the same British Parliament in London, and there were still no representatives from the 13 colonies there.

Suddenly, deciding to take a sip of tea meant something more than just having a drink. If you bought British tea, you were paying a tax, and, indirectly, you were agreeing that Parliament had the right to tax the colonies. On the other hand, if you refused to buy British tea, you were making a statement of a different kind: you were saying that you did not approve of—and would not accept—taxation without representation.

Colonists who were angry about the new tax agreed not to buy British tea. But they didn't stop there. They also visited inns and other places that sold tea and asked the owners to stop selling it. Many establishments agreed to boycott British tea.

Sequencing Events

Sequence the following events from first to last. The first event, the French and Indian War, is already labeled. Number the remaining events 2–5.

_____ Parliament passed the Stamp Act, taxing colonists to raise money for Great Britain.

_____ Great Britain was left with enormous debts after the war and needed additional funds to maintain the new lands it acquired from France.

1 The British fought and defeated the French in the French and Indian War to gain control of land in North America.

_____ The colonists protested the Stamp Act with meetings, pamphlets, and petitions to London.

_____ The colonists felt the Stamp Act was unfair because they had no representation in the British Parliament where the laws were made.

Identify Causes and Effects

The chronology, or order, of events is very important when writing a cause and effect essay because it helps the reader understand both what happened and why. One event often causes another to happen.

Each sentence below tells about one of the events you have just sequenced. Each sentence includes both what happened (effect) and why it happened (cause).

Read the sentence fragments beneath each complete sentence and identify which one describes the cause and which one describes the effect of each event. Underline either cause or effect after each sentence fragment. The first one has been completed for you.

1. Because the British and the French wanted to gain control of land in North America, they fought each other in the French and Indian War.
 - because the British and the French wanted to gain control of land in North America (cause / effect)
 - they fought each other in the French and Indian War (cause / effect)

Excerpt from “The Fight Begins”

Read the following excerpt aloud to a family member. Then complete the activity that follows.

Complaints and Grievances

The 56 members of the First Continental Congress drafted a list of complaints and grievances against the king and his government. They agreed that all 13 colonies would stop importing goods from Great Britain—not just tea and other items that were taxed, but all British goods. They also agreed that, unless Parliament repealed the Intolerable Acts, the colonies would stop exporting colonial goods to Great Britain.

Some colonists began to think a war was unavoidable. They thought it was time to start stockpiling muskets and gunpowder. Others believed that it was not too late to patch up relations with the king and his government.

Representatives from Virginia debated this issue in March 1775. Several representatives argued that Virginia should do whatever it could to keep the peace and restore good relations with the king. But others felt that it was too late for that. A country lawyer named Patrick Henry proposed that it was time to stop talking about peace and to start fighting for liberty:

“Gentlemen may cry, Peace, Peace—but there is no peace. The war is actually begun! . . . Our brethren are already in the field! Why stand we here idle? What is it that gentlemen wish? . . . Is life so dear, or peace so sweet, as to be purchased at the price of chains and slavery? Forbid it, Almighty God! I know not what course others may take; but as for me, give me liberty or give me death!”

—Patrick Henry

Many people in Massachusetts agreed with Patrick Henry. They were organizing militias, stockpiling guns, and preparing to fight. Some of the Massachusetts militiamen were known as minutemen. These special troops were created to be ready to fight at a moment’s notice!

The British government knew that these preparations were underway. In response, they sent a large army to Boston. British generals were told to confiscate any weapons they could find. They were also told to find and arrest the biggest troublemakers among the Sons of Liberty—Samuel Adams and John Hancock.

In April 1775, the British tried to capture some weapons that members of the patriot movement had hidden in Concord, west of Boston. Approximately 700 British soldiers marched out of Boston on the night of April 18, hoping to surprise the militia in Concord. But the patriots were watching every move the British soldiers made.

From “Paul Revere’s Ride”
Henry Wadsworth Longfellow
Written in 1860

Listen, my children, and you shall hear 1
Of the midnight ride of Paul Revere, 2
On the eighteenth of April, in Seventy-Five; 3
Hardly a man is now alive 4
Who remembers that famous day and year. 5

He said to his friend, “If the British march 1
By land or sea from the town to-night, 2
Hang a lantern aloft in the belfry-arch 3
Of the North-Church-tower, as a signal-light, — 4
One if by land, and two if by sea; 5
And I on the opposite shore will be, 6
Ready to ride and spread the alarm 7
Through every Middlesex village and farm, 8
For the country-folk to be up and to arm. 9

Meanwhile, impatient to mount and ride, 1
Booted and spurred, with a heavy stride, 2
On the opposite shore walked Paul Revere. 3
Now he patted his horse’s side, 4
Now gazed on the landscape far and near, 5
Then impetuous stamped the earth, 6

And turned and tightened his saddle-girth; 7
But mostly he watched with eager search 8
The belfry-tower of the old North Church, 9
As it rose above the graves on the hill, 10
Lonely and spectral and somber and still. 11
And lo! as he looks, on the belfry's height, 12
A glimmer, and then a gleam of light! 13
He springs to the saddle, the bridle he turns, 14
But lingers and gazes, till full on his sight 15
A second lamp in the belfry burns! 16

About the Author

Henry Wadsworth Longfellow is well-known for writing many poems about American history. “Paul Revere’s Ride” was first published in 1860 to inspire American patriotism in the months leading up to the Civil War.

Vignette I

Characters: Narrator, Members of Parliament (5), Members of Sons of Liberty (8), Paul Revere

Narrator: The year is 1766 and the British colonies of North America are unhappy with what they consider to be unfair taxes levied on them by Great Britain. Listen as members of the British Parliament discuss what to do about these angry colonists.

Great Britain 1766

Member of Parliament 1: The colonists are not calming down. They continue to protest the Stamp Act and boycott British goods. I am told they may rebel if we don't do something soon.

Member of Parliament 2: Can the Stamp Act be repealed to quiet them down?

Member of Parliament 3: It can. However, we still need to collect taxes to cover the debts from the French and Indian War and pay to maintain our newly acquired land.

Member of Parliament 4: Perhaps we could repeal the Stamp Act and impose a new tax, such as a tax on tea. The colonists might be so pleased to have the Stamp Act gone that they won't worry about new taxes.

Member of Parliament 5: A brilliant solution! We need to keep the peace with the British colonists, but we also have to pay off Great Britain's debts. Let us repeal the Stamp Act and pass another act as quickly as possible to tax the colonists on other goods. If they do not have to buy stamps, they may not even be aware of being taxed.

Narrator: The British Parliament voted to repeal the Stamp Act in March of 1766, only one year after the Stamp Act was passed. But, four years later, the colonists are still unhappy. Listen to find out why.

Four Years Later: Colonies 1770

Member of Sons of Liberty 1: King George and his Parliament must think we are fools! Nothing has changed! They merely replace one tax with another! These taxes are imposed on us by a far-away government.

Member of Sons of Liberty 2: We have been able to raise our own taxes in the past. Have they lost faith in our ability to govern ourselves?”

Member of Sons of Liberty 3: Whatever their reason, it is not fair. We deserve a voice in how to raise the money.

Member of Sons of Liberty 4: The British Parliament thinks we are weak. We cannot tolerate unfair taxes that are set by a ruler who is across the ocean.

Member of Sons of Liberty 5: Yes, and look where it has led—a massacre in the streets of Boston! We must stand up for those who died.

Three Years Later: Colonies 1773

Narrator: The year is 1773, three years after the Boston Massacre, and the colonists still feel unheard by Great Britain. Listen as Paul Revere discusses what action to take next with his fellow members of the Sons of Liberty.

Paul Revere: We are no better off than we were three years ago! It is true that Parliament repealed some taxes after the Boston Massacre, but the tax on tea remains.

Member of Sons of Liberty 6: It’s not too late. We need to send Parliament a message and show them we are strong.

Member of Sons of Liberty 7: Remember the ships in the harbor that we blocked from unloading tea? If the ships won't go back, let's dump the tea into the Boston Harbor!

Paul Revere: Yes! That will show Parliament what we think about paying a tax for the right to drink tea. Think how much money Great Britain will lose if the contents of more than 300 chests of tea sink to the bottom of the bay.

Member of Sons of Liberty 8: Agreed. It's time to do something! No more taxation without representation!

Continued chanting by all members of Sons of Liberty: No taxation without representation!

Vignette II

Characters: Narrator, King George III, Members of Parliament (4), Patrick Henry, Representatives from Virginia (2)

Narrator: In December of 1773, the Sons of Liberty dumped chests full of tea in Boston Harbor. Listen to discover how King George III reacted when he received word of the Boston Tea Party. In this scene, the king discusses the event with members of the British Parliament.

British Parliament, Great Britain 1774

King George III: This is an outrage! Dumping 340 chests of tea into Boston Harbor is just foolishness! They thought the taxes were bad? Now they will have to repay Great Britain for the tea they dumped.

Member of Parliament 1: We can send British ships and keep the harbor closed until the colonists pay for the cost of the tea they threw away. No ships will be able to enter or leave the harbor.

King George III: Yes. And closing the harbor will not be all. Boston must be reminded that they are British subjects. They live with protection and privileges provided by Great Britain, and they will live with the laws of their king.

Member of Parliament 2: What other laws do you propose, Your Majesty?

King George III: The colonists are taking too many liberties. I want stricter control of their meetings and how they elect officials. I or my ministers will decide who holds important government positions in Massachusetts.

Member of Parliament 3: I quite agree. There should also be new rules for trials. Bostonians should be tried by the king's judges outside of Boston.

Member of Parliament 4: It would also relieve the burden and expense on Great Britain if the colonists provided food and shelter for British soldiers.

King George III: Agreed. Make it so, and send more soldiers to Boston. I have a feeling we may need them there.

Narrator: Parliament passes a series of acts, known as the Intolerable Acts, during 1774. Word spreads, raising debates throughout the colonies. Should the colonists obey the laws of a far-away government or break away from Great Britain altogether? Listen as Patrick Henry declares his views before a group of representatives in Virginia.

Richmond, Virginia 1775

Patrick Henry: Gentlemen, I attended the First Continental Congress in Philadelphia last year, as did some of you. We agreed that Parliament's new laws are indeed intolerable. These laws show that King George is not going to allow any colonists the independence we desire and have had in the past.

Virginia Representative 1: But Mr. Henry, King George knows he must repeal the Intolerable Acts or we will stop exporting goods to Great Britain.

Patrick Henry: The king shows no sign of hearing our complaints and grievances. Mere words are not enough. We need to take action.

Virginia Representative 2: What are you suggesting, Mr. Henry? Do you believe that war is unavoidable?

Patrick Henry: Gentlemen may cry, "Peace! Peace!" But there is no peace. The war is actually begun! . . . I know not what course others may take; but as for me, give me liberty or give me death!

Characters: Narrator, Members of Parliament (2), King George III, Samuel Adams, John Hancock

Narrator: Patrick Henry's cry for liberty rang out through the colonies, and many people agreed with him that war was unavoidable and the time had come for the colonies to arm themselves. Listen to King George's reaction to news from his soldiers in Massachusetts that the colonists are preparing to fight.

Great Britain, Early April 1775

Member of Parliament 1: Your Majesty, word has come that the colonists are organizing militias, stockpiling guns, and preparing to fight.

King George III: Then the soldiers we have in Boston will not be enough. It is time to send an army. Are the Sons of Liberty still leading this revolt?

Member of Parliament 2: There is support trickling throughout the colonies; but, yes, the Sons of Liberty are still at the heart of things in Boston. Word has it Samuel Adams and John Hancock are two of the biggest troublemakers.

King George III: Tell my army to confiscate any weapons they can find and arrest Samuel Adams and John Hancock.

Narrator: Tensions had been high in and around Boston for many years now. Constant clashes between British soldiers and colonists finally came to a head in the nearby towns of Lexington and Concord. Listen as Samuel Adams and John Hancock discuss the events of April 19, 1775, and what it means for the future.

Massachusetts, Late April 1775

Samuel Adams: John, it is a miracle we are alive!

John Hancock: Certainly it is, for King George's army was hunting us down.

Samuel Adams: They were also hunting down the weapons we hid, not too far from Boston in Concord.

John Hancock: Well, they found the weapons, but not how they had hoped!

Samuel Adams: Ha, that's right! Little did they know that Paul Revere and other riders had a plan to warn people when the British army marched out of Boston.

John Hancock: We all owe those men a great debt, for we were able to be ready to stand our ground in Lexington and prepare to fight as the army marched to Concord and back.

Samuel Adams: The British army was smaller when it got back to Boston than when it left. But we lost many men, too.

John Hancock: Indeed, and it is with a heavy heart that I say: this is only the beginning.

From Valley Forge to Yorktown

Read the following excerpt and answer the questions that follow.

Von Steuben taught the Continental soldiers how to march and stand in formation. He taught them how to advance on the battlefield. He also taught them how to use the bayonets attached to their muskets. Von Steuben trained a model company. Then, the members of this model company trained other companies.

The following question has two parts. Answer Part A and then answer Part B.

- Part A: In this paragraph, what is the meaning of model company?
 - a military company deserving to be copied by others
 - a fashion company that employs people to model clothes
 - a toy company that makes plastic parts to form model airplanes
 - an art company that employs models to pose for portrait painters

Part B: Which sentence from the text best helps the reader determine the meaning of the term model company?

- Von Steuben taught the Continental soldiers how to march and stand in formation.
 - He taught them how to advance on the battlefield.
 - He also taught them how to use the bayonets attached to their muskets.
 - Then, the members of this model company trained other companies.
- Explain in your own words how one man, Friedrich Wilhelm von Steuben, was able to train so many men for battle in such a short amount of time.

Read the following excerpt and answer the questions that follow.

In late September, Washington arrived at Yorktown with 4,000 French soldiers and 3,000 Continental soldiers. The Major General of the Continental Army was the Marquis de Lafayette. These new soldiers reinforced Lafayette's men who were already there. The French navy arrived as well, and one of the first things they did was drive away a convoy of British ships that were carrying supplies for Cornwallis and his men. That was when Cornwallis knew he was in trouble. He was cornered by the French and Continental armies, and the French navy had cut off his escape route as well as his supplies!

The French and Continental armies set up cannons and began firing on the British. For days the guns fired constantly. Washington gave orders to fire through the night so the British would not have any quiet time to rest or make repairs.

Cornwallis and his men could not protect themselves and, because of the position of the French fleet, they could not sail away. Eventually, on October 19, 1781, Cornwallis accepted that he had no choice but to surrender.

The following question has two parts. Answer Part A and then answer Part B.

3. Part A: In the first paragraph, what is the meaning of the word reinforced?

- A. enforced new laws again
- B. strengthened with new supplies or more people
- C. angered

Chapter 8

The Legend of Sleepy Hollow

(Adapted from the story by Washington Irving)

THE BIG QUESTION
Why do people believe a headless horseman haunts the village of Sleepy Hollow?

Not far from the eastern shore of the Hudson River is a little valley known as Sleepy Hollow. A drowsy, dreamy atmosphere hangs over the valley, as if it were under the sway of some bewitching power. The valley abounds with local tales, haunted spots, and twilight superstitions. But the dominant spirit that haunts the region is the sight of a ghostly figure on horseback without a head. It is said to be the spirit of a Hessian soldier, whose head was carried away by a cannonball during the Revolutionary War. The ghost is said to ride out nightly to the scene of the battle in search of his head, and to return to the churchyard before daybreak.

In this out-of-the-way place there lived a teacher by the name of Ichabod Crane. His name was well-suited to him. He was tall and very lanky, with narrow shoulders, long arms and legs, and hands that dangled a mile out of his sleeves. He had huge ears, large green eyes, and a long nose. To see him striding along on a windy day, with his clothes fluttering about him, one might have mistaken him for a scarecrow.

From his schoolhouse, his pupils could be heard reciting their lessons. They were occasionally interrupted by the voice of the master or by the sound of his switch.

According to custom, Ichabod Crane was boarded and lodged at the houses of the farmers whose children he taught. He lived with each family a week at a time. His arrival at a home caused great excitement, for the ladies thought his taste and accomplishments superior to those of the rough, country farmers. He had read many books. He was a perfect master of Cotton Mather's History of New England Witchcraft. He himself was a firm believer in witches. Ichabod would sit in the schoolhouse after the students had departed, reading old Mather's book until dusk. Then, as he made his way back to where he was staying, every sound of nature encouraged his overexcited imagination.

He loved to pass long winter evenings with the farmers' wives as they sat spinning by the fire. He listened with interest to their tales of ghosts and goblins—and of the headless horseman. But the cost of the pleasure in all this was the terror of his walk home. What fearful shapes and shadows jumped across his path! How often did he dread to look over his shoulder, for fear of catching a glimpse of some ghostly being close behind him!

Katrina Van Tassel, the only child of a rich farmer, found favor in Ichabod's eyes—not merely for her beauty

but for her vast inheritance. Her father was a thriving farmer, and his barn was filled with the fruits of his labor. Sleek porkers grunted in their pens. Regiments of turkeys went gobbling through the farmyard. The teacher's mouth watered as he pictured every pig roasted with an apple in its mouth and every turkey wearing a necklace of savory sausages. As he cast his eyes upon the trees laden with fruit, and considered the obvious wealth that surrounded him, he became determined to win the affections of the farmer's daughter.

However, he was not the only suitor. The most formidable of all was a local hero known as Brom Bones. He was a burly young fellow, famous for his horsemanship and always ready for a fight or some fun. Whenever a crazy prank occurred in the neighborhood, people whispered that Brom Bones must be at the bottom of it.

Excerpt from “Rip Van Winkle”

Read the following excerpt from the Reader and complete the activity that follows.

One day, seeking to escape the hard work of the farm and the complaints of his wife, Rip grabbed his gun and walked into the Catskill Mountains to hunt for squirrels. All day the mountains echoed with the sound of shots fired from his gun. Finally, he sat down on a little green hill that looked down into the valley below. Rip admired the scene as evening gradually advanced and sighed as he thought about the journey home.

As he was about to descend, he heard a voice calling, “Rip Van Winkle! Rip Van Winkle!” He caught sight of a strange figure climbing up the rocks, carrying something on its back. Rip was surprised to see any human being in this lonely place, but he concluded that it must be one of his neighbors in need of assistance. Rip hurried down to help. The stranger was a short old fellow with a grizzled beard. His clothes were old-fashioned and he carried a stout keg that Rip supposed was full of something refreshing to drink. He made signs for Rip to assist him, and together they clambered up a narrow gully. Every now and then long rolling peals like thunder seemed to issue out of a deep ravine. Passing through this ravine, they came to a hollow.

In the center was a company of odd-looking persons playing at ninepins. The thunderous noise Rip had heard from afar was the sound of the ball rolling toward the pins. Like Rip’s guide, they were dressed in an outlandish fashion, with enormous breeches. What seemed particularly odd to Rip was that these folks looked very serious indeed. They played without speaking and were, in fact, the most melancholy party he had ever witnessed. They stared at Rip in such a way that his heart turned within him and his knees banged together.

Rip and his guide joined the party. His guide emptied the keg into large tankards, and the men sipped in silence. When they were done, they returned to their game. As Rip's fear subsided, he ventured to taste the beverage, too. Before long, the events of the day and the mountain air overpowered Rip, and he fell into a deep sleep.

Use the space below to write a brief summary of the events included in the excerpt. Use your own words and include all the details that are important for understanding the passage.

Unit Assessment—American Revolution

Reading Comprehension

Today you will read two selections about the American Revolution. After reading the first selection, you will answer several questions based on it. Then, you will read the second selection and answer several questions based on the texts.

Benjamin Franklin and the Revolutionary War

- 1 You could say Benjamin Franklin played an important role in the American Revolution. However, it would be more accurate to say Franklin played several important roles.
- 2 Before discussing Franklin's roles in the Revolutionary War, it is necessary to describe something important Franklin did long before the Revolution. Back in the 1750s, during the French and Indian War, it seems Franklin created and printed a popular cartoon, which showed a snake divided into several sections. The tail was labeled S.C., for South Carolina. One of the middle sections was labeled N.J., for New Jersey. The head was labeled N.E., for New England. Underneath the snake Franklin printed the words "JOIN, or DIE." What was he trying to say? It's likely he was trying to say that if the colonies joined together to fight against the French, they would be much stronger. And if they did not join together, the French would defeat them. Franklin was urging the colonies to join together against a common enemy.
- 3 The colonies did eventually join together during the French and Indian War. With help from the British, as well as their own Native American allies, the colonists were able to defeat the French. However, when the British government tried to pay for the war with new taxes, another crisis occurred. This brings us to one of Franklin's important roles in the American Revolution — helping to oppose the Stamp Act.
- 4 Franklin was in England in 1765, when Parliament was voting on the Stamp Act. He was serving as a diplomat representing the Pennsylvania Assembly. His job was to represent the colony and try to protect the colonists' interests. Franklin opposed the Stamp Act and tried to convince members of Parliament to vote against it. Even though Franklin argued against the Stamp Act, Parliament approved it.

- 5 The colonists at home protested against the Stamp Act. The Stamp Act was a tax on all paper items. Many people refused to buy these items, therefore refusing to pay the tax. These protesters thought it was important for all colonies to join together and oppose the tax.
- 6 Some protesters remembered the cartoon Franklin had created 10 years earlier—the one with snake parts. They felt this cartoon was perfect for the current situation. Once again, the colonies had to join together against a common enemy. This time, the common enemy was not the French. It was Parliament and the king’s ministers. Franklin’s cartoon was reprinted in many colonial newspapers.
- 7 The colonists’ reaction to the Stamp Act surprised the king and his government. Franklin was called to speak in the Houses of Parliament. He tried to persuade Parliament to remove the Stamp Act by explaining why the colonists were so upset about the new law, and his remarks helped convince Parliament to repeal the act. Helping convince Parliament to repeal the Stamp Act was another one of Franklin’s important roles in the American Revolution.
- 8 Many colonists were pleased with Franklin because he had opposed the Stamp Act. Several other colonies decided to make him their representative in London. He not only served as a representative for Pennsylvania, he also represented Massachusetts, New Jersey, and Georgia.
- 9 In 1774, Franklin met with several top British ministers. They believed Franklin was being disloyal to them and unsupportive of their views. By this time, Franklin was getting very frustrated with King George III and Parliament. It seemed to him the king and Parliament were not listening to the colonists’ concerns or caring about their needs. Franklin felt the colonists would have no choice but to break away and declare independence. Despite Franklin’s frustration, he still had some hope that the British and colonies would come to an agreement. However, a few months later, he decided it was time to return home to help the patriots—a cause he now firmly supported.

A Fictional Excerpt from a Boy’s Diary, Written in New York City, New York—July 11, 1776

- 1 Yesterday was a day I will never forget. I got up early and ran to Dickie’s house. Then the two of us went out to see the soldiers from Connecticut march into town. Dickie thought there were about 400 soldiers.

- 2 After lunch, they called out each of the colonial regiments and they all lined up in formation. Then they read the Declaration of Independence aloud. There were so many people there that we couldn’t see General Washington. In fact, we couldn’t see much of anything, but we could hear some of the words. And what fine words they were! Dickie and I liked the part that began, “We hold these truths to be self-evident . . .” because it sounded so eloquent and poetic. The last part of it was a bit less exciting, though. It listed many complaints against King George: he has raised our taxes, he has quartered troops in our cities, he has—The list seemed to go on forever.

- 3 Dickie whispered, “This long list makes it clear that while King George may be a good king for the British, he is not a good king for the colonists.”

- 4 When they finished reading the list, the soldiers fired a salute and everybody cheered. It was so exciting that I was sad when I had to go home for supper. However, it turned out my day was not over yet.

- 5 Later that night, while I was lying in bed, I heard a noise that sounded like a bird call. The sound seemed to be coming from right outside our front door, and it kept repeating. Somehow, I didn’t think it was a bird.

- 6 I got out of bed and tiptoed over to the door. Then I made the same bird call. There was a short pause before I heard a voice whisper, “Come outside!”

- 7 It was Dickie!

- 8 I tiptoed over to look at Papa, and he was snoring loudly. Mama was sleeping, too, so I slipped on my breeches and tiptoed out.

NAME: _____

DATE: _____

- 9 “You won’t believe it!” Dickie said. “They are tearing down the statue!”
- 10 “Which one?” I asked.
- 11 “The statue of the king in the Bowling Green Park!” Dickie said.
- 12 We ducked over to Broadway and then ran as fast as we could all the way down to Bowling Green. There stood the statue of King George III—the one that shows him dressed up like a Roman general riding on a horse.
- 13 A noisy crowd of people had gathered and most of them were men. Some of them were men I knew, men who were proud to call themselves Sons of Liberty. Others were men I had never seen before. They were shouting and yelling and singing patriotic songs. There were bonfires burning, and some men were pulling on ropes, trying to pull the statue down.
- 14 It took a lot of tugging, but eventually the statue tipped over and came crashing down. A great roar rose from the crowd.
- 15 Then a soldier with red hair jumped up on the statue and made a speech. “Good people!” he shouted. “Noble patriots and lovers of your country, I am a humble soldier from the great, independent state of New Jersey.”
- 16 The crowd applauded loudly for the speaker.
- 17 “I thank you in advance for the musket balls you have promised to make from this fallen statue. I assure you that my fellow soldiers and I will use those musket balls for a good cause.”
- 18 The crowd applauded loudly again after hearing this.
- 19 Dickie and I stayed at Bowling Green a while longer before returning home. I managed to sneak back into bed without Mama or Papa noticing I was gone.
- 20 When I woke up the next morning, Papa was reading the paper.

- 21 He said, “Well, my boy, it’s a good thing we were home in our beds last night! For it seems that the patriot crowd got a little out of hand. It says here that they tore down the statue of the king!”
- 22 “Really?” I said, trying to sound surprised while hiding my smile.

[Note: this is an imaginary story based on real events that occurred in New York City on July 9, 1776. The story was inspired by a newspaper account in Frank Moore, Diary of the American Revolution (New York, 1860), pp. 270–271.]

Cause and Effect Essay Editing Checklist

Cause and Effect Essay Editing Checklist	After checking for each type of edit, place a check here.
Meaning (It sounds right when I read it aloud.)
• All my sentences have a subject and predicate.
• I included all the words I wanted to write.
• I took out repeated words or information.
Format
• All my paragraphs are indented.
• I have a title on the front.
Capitals
• I began each sentence with a capital letter.
• I used capital letters for all proper nouns.
Spelling
• I have checked the spelling for any words I was unsure of or my teacher marked.
Punctuation
• I read my writing piece aloud to check for periods, question marks, and exclamation points at the end of my sentences.
• I used commas and quotation marks in places where they belong.

Acknowledgments

These materials are the result of the work, advice, and encouragement of numerous individuals over many years. Some of those singled out here already know the depth of our gratitude; others may be surprised to find themselves thanked publicly for help they gave quietly and generously for the sake of the enterprise alone. To helpers named and unnamed we are deeply grateful.

Contributors to Earlier Versions of These Materials

Susan B. Albaugh, Kazuko Ashizawa, Kim Berrall, Ang Blanchette, Nancy Braier, Maggie Buchanan, Paula Coyner, Kathryn M. Cummings, Michelle De Groot, Michael Donegan, Diana Espinal, Mary E.
